PREPOSITIONS

At the beginning of the clause:

- The library, from which I imported the function, is outdated and needs to be updated.
- The API, with which we made the request, returned an error code.

At the end of the clause:

- The function that I imported the library from is no longer supported.
- The request returned an error code because we used the wrong endpoint, which we made the request with.

When "that" has a preposition, the preposition always comes at the end.
