

Point, dot, period

You can use "POINT" when representing decimal numbers such as "two point 75 / 2.75".

However, when discussing object notation or domains, the "dot" is used instead, such as "console dot log / console.log" or "Microsoft dot com / microsoft.com".

Finally, when indicating a pause at the end of a sentence, we use "period" such as in "stop, period".
